

Appendix A: Data Table Column Summary and Row Order

The following table summarizes the columns containing data in each of the five data tables provided on Casino City's Gaming Business Directory CD. Within each data table the columns are ordered in the same sequence as they are listed in the table below. Columns without a checkmark are still present in a data table, but do not contain any actual data.

The data tables are provided in eight distinct data formats. There are exceptions to the information provided in this section for three of these formats. Appendix C describes the exceptions for dBase III, Appendix D describes the exceptions for the ACT! contact manager, and Appendix E describes the exceptions for the GoldMine business contact manager.

Descriptions of the contents of each data table column can be found in Appendix B.

The Type column indicates whether the data in a column is of data type text or data type number. If you convert data from one format to another you should be sure the appropriate data type is specified for each column during the conversion process. Otherwise, the wrong data type may be used by default. For example, when importing comma-separated values data into Excel, values that should be treated as having a data type of "text" may incorrectly be treated as having a data type of "number" when they contain numeric digits. Thus zip codes can be incorrectly treated as numeric values, leading to the deletion of initial zeros.

Rows within the data tables are sorted in ascending order based upon the values in the columns: (i) Country, (ii) StateLong, (iii) Company, (iv) ResponsibilityOrder, (v) LastName, and (vi) FirstName.

Appendix B: Data Table Column Descriptions

The following table describes the contents of the columns in the data tables provided on Casino City's Gaming Business Directory CD. Appendix A shows which columns contain data in each of the data tables.

Column Name	Column Description
RecordType	The name of the data table containing the row or record.
Company	The name of the gaming property or gaming property owner.
Address1	The first line of the mailing address of the company.
Address2	The second line of the mailing address of the company.
Address3	The third line of the mailing address of the company. This line is present only if it contains the post office box of the company and the first two lines contain the physical address of the company.
City	The mailing address city of the company.
State	The mailing address state in the United States, province in Canada, island in the Caribbean, region in the United Kingdom and state in Australia of the company. State and province names are abbreviated using standard abbreviations. Island and region names are spelled out fully. Island names are included only for Caribbean countries that contain several islands.
StateLong	The mailing address state in the United States, province in Canada, island in the Caribbean, region in the United Kingdom and state in Australia of the company. State, province, island and region names are spelled out fully. Island names are included only for Caribbean countries that contain several islands.
PostalCode	The mailing address postal code of the company. Within the United States a dash is included after the first five digits of the zip code when a nine-digit zip code is provided. Within Canada a space separates the first three characters of the postal code from the last three characters.
PostalCodePlacement	Indicates the location in the mailing address where the postal code is placed when a postal code is provided as part of the mailing address. Contains the value "After State" for mailing addresses in countries such as the United States and Canada where the postal code is placed after the city and any state name, and the value "Before City" in countries such as France and Germany where the postal code is placed before the city name.
Country	The mailing address country of the company. The country name is fully spelled out.
PhysicalAddress1	The first line of the physical address of the company.
PhysicalAddress2	The second line of the physical address of the company.
PhysicalCity	The physical address city of the company.
PhysicalState	The physical address state in the United States, province in Canada, island in the Caribbean, region in the United Kingdom and state in Australia of the company. State, province, island and region names are spelled out fully. Island names are included only for Caribbean countries that contain several islands.

Column Name	Column Description
PhysicalPostalCode	The physical address postal code of the company. Within the United States a dash is included after the first five digits of the zip code when a nine-digit zip code is provided. Within Canada a space separates the first three characters of the postal code from the last three characters.
PhysicalPostalCodePlacement	Indicates the location in the physical address where the postal code is placed when a postal code is provided as part of the physical address. Contains the value “After State” for physical addresses in countries such as the United States and Canada where the postal code is placed after the city and any state name, and the value “Before City” in countries such as France and Germany where the postal code is placed before the city name.
PhysicalCountry	The physical address country of the company. The country name is fully spelled out.
Longitude	The longitude is the location, in decimal degrees, of the property east or west of the prime meridian. Negative values represent locations to the west of the prime meridian and positive numbers represent locations to the east of the prime meridian.
Latitude	The latitude is the location, in decimal degrees, of the property north or south of the equator. Negative values represent locations to the south of the equator and positive numbers represent locations to the north of the equator.
LocationPrecision	The location precision is the precision to which the longitude and latitude have been assigned. A value of street indicates that the location has been assigned to the “Street” address of the property. A value of “Postal Code” indicates that the location has been assigned to the center of the postal code in which the property is located. A value of “City” indicates that the location has been assigned to the center of the city in which the property is located. A value of “State” indicates that the location has been assigned to the center of the state in which the property is located.
Phone	The main telephone number of the company. Additional detail on the format of telephone numbers can be found in Appendix F.
Fax	The fax telephone number of the company. Additional detail on the format of telephone numbers can be found in Appendix F.
FaxDigits	The digits of the fax telephone number of the company. The number begins with the country code (the digit one within the North American calling area) and excludes any punctuation characters such as parenthesis, dashes, or blanks. This form of the fax number is suitable for use with fax services such as efax.com.
TollFree	The toll-free telephone number of the company. Toll-free telephone numbers may not work from all calling areas. Additional detail on the format of telephone numbers can be found in Appendix F.

Column Name	Column Description
PropertyStatus	The status of a gaming property. A value of “Open” indicates the property is open. A value of “Under Construction” indicates the property is under construction and has not yet opened. A value of “Planned” indicates the property is in the planning stages but that construction has not begun. A value of “Temporarily Closed” indicated the property is currently closed, but was previously open and is expected to reopen again, frequently after completion of renovations or repairs.
Hours	The hours of operation for a gaming property.
GameList	A list of the games offered by a gaming property. Multiple games can be listed, separated from each other by a comma followed by a space. The list of games can be found in Appendix H.
RestaurantList	A list of the restaurants and food and beverage outlets at a gaming property. The cuisine may be included within parentheses following the restaurant name. Multiple restaurants can be listed, separated from each other by a comma followed by a space.

Sportsbook	Indicates whether or not a gaming property is known to have a sports book. A value of “Yes” indicates a property has a sports book and value of “No” indicates otherwise.
Racebook	Indicates whether or not a gaming property is known to have a race book. A value of “Yes” indicates the property has a race book and a value of “No” indicates otherwise. For tracks a value of “Yes” indicates the track offers simulcasting of races at other tracks.
CasinoSquareFootage	The square footage of the casino gaming area of a gaming property. A value of zero indicates that there is not a casino gaming area or that the square footage of the casino gaming area is not available.

Column Name	Column Description
ConventionSquareFootage	The square footage of the convention area of a gaming property. A value of zero indicates that there is no convention area or that the square footage of the convention area is not available.
Rooms	The number of hotel rooms available at a casino-hotel, or the number of cabins in a cruise ship with gaming facilities. A value of zero indicates that there are no hotel rooms or cabins or that the number of hotel rooms or cabins is not available.
Restaurants	The number of restaurants and other dining facilities available at a gaming property. A value of zero indicates that there are no restaurants or that the number of restaurants is not available.
EntertainmentVenues	The number of entertainment venues available at a gaming property. A value of zero indicates that there are no entertainment venues or that the number of entertainment venues is not available.
ParkingSpaces	The number of parking spaces available at a gaming property. A value of zero indicates that the number of parking spaces is not available.
Employees	The number of employees at a gaming property. For a cruise ship, the crew size is used if the number of employees is not available. A value of zero indicates that neither the number of employees nor the crew size is available.
PropertiesOwned	The number of gaming properties owned by a gaming property owner.
StockSymbol	The stock symbol of the company if it is publicly traded.
WebSite	The website address of the company. The prefix "http://" is not included as part of the website address.
Email	The e-mail address of the company.
NativeAmerican	Indicates if a Native American tribe or First Nation owns a gaming property or if a gaming property owner is a Native American tribe or First Nation. A value of "Yes" indicates Native American Tribe or First Nation ownership and a value of "No" indicates otherwise. For agencies and commissions a value of "Yes" indicates the company is a tribal gaming commission.
PropertyType	Indicates the type of gaming property. A value of "Casino" indicates land-based casinos, card rooms, and riverboat casinos. A value of "Horse Track" indicates a horse track that does not offer casino gaming and a value of "Horse Track Racino" indicates a horse track that offers casino gaming. A value of "Dog Track" indicates a dog track that does not offer casino gaming and a value of "Dog Track Racino" indicates a dog track that offers casino gaming. A value of "Casino Cruise" indicates an ocean-based cruise to nowhere offering casino gaming and a value of "Cruise Ship" indicates a cruise ship offering casino gaming. A value of "Jai-Alai Fronton" indicates a jai-alai fronton. A value of "Online" indicates an online gaming site including online casinos, poker, bingo, sports books, and lotteries.
Salutation	The salutation of an executive contact. Common values include "Mr.", "Ms.", "Miss", "Mrs.", and "Dr."
FirstName	The first name of an executive contact.
MiddleName	The middle name or middle initial of an executive contact.

Column Name	Column Description
LastName	The last name of an executive contact.
NameSuffix	The name suffix of an executive contact. Common values include “Jr.” and “Sr.”.
Title	The short title of an executive contact. Short titles are derived from long titles by replacing specific words and phrases with abbreviated versions of the words or phrases. Examples include “Dir” for “Director”, “VP” for “Vice President”, “CEO” for “Chief Executive Officer”, and “&” for “and”. A complete list of abbreviations used in the transformation of long titles to short titles can be found in Appendix I.
TitleLong	The long title of an executive contact. Long titles for gaming property contacts and gaming property owner contacts do not use any form of abbreviation. Long titles for other types of contacts may contain abbreviations.
Responsibilities	An executive contact’s areas of responsibility, or departments. Multiple departments can be listed, separated from each other by a comma followed by a space. A complete list of department values can be found in Appendix G.
ResponsibilityOrder	A number representing the responsibility order of an executive contact within a company. If there is a single executive contact for a gaming property or gaming property owner, then that executive will always have a responsibility order value of 1. If there are two or more executives, then one executive will have a responsibility order value of 1 and the other executives will have responsibility order values of 2, 3, and so on. Executives with titles believed to indicate a greater level of responsibility are assigned smaller responsibility order values so sorting executives in ascending order by their responsibility order value will place the highest ranking executives first. For example, a president is always given a smaller responsibility order value than a vice president, and a vice president is always given a smaller responsibility order value than a manager. If two titles are viewed as representing the same level of responsibility, they will be assigned different but adjacent responsibility order values. Responsibility order values can be used to select a specific number of executive contacts based on their relative level of responsibility.
PropertyOwnerName	The name of a gaming property owner or a management company responsible for a gaming property. Multiple property owner and management company names can be listed, separated from each other by a comma and a space, in the GamingProperties and GamingPropertyContacts tables.
PropertyId	The identification number used for a gaming property by Casino City Press.
OrganizationId	The identification number used for a gaming property owner by Casino City Press.
ContactId	The identification number used for an executive contact by Casino City Press.

Appendix C: dBase III Data Table Column Names

Appendix D: ACT! Contact Manager Fields

The ACT!2000 Contact Manager provides a fixed set of standard fields as well as fifteen user fields. Because of this restriction, only a limited number of Gaming Business Directory data table columns can be included in the ACT! versions of the data tables. The following table shows the standard Gaming Business Directory columns available and the corresponding standard ACT!2000 field names. The names of the user fields in the Gaming Business Directory ACT!2000 databases included on the CD have been renamed to match the standard Gaming Business Directory column names. The last column in the table below shows the field names used in the ACT!2000 databases included on the CD.

ACT!2000 supports layout files that allow you to control the way information in ACT is displayed. A Gaming Business Directory layout file is provided in the ACT folder of the CD with a filename of GBD.cly. You should copy this file to the ACT layout folder on your personal computer. Ordinarily the layout folder will be located in the folder where ACT is installed and will have a name such as C:\Program Files\ACT\Layout.

The GBD layout file clusters all of the user fields together and adjusts the display format to be more appropriate for the contents of the fields. You can switch to use this layout by clicking on the button displaying the current layout located in the bottom right section of the ACT screen and selecting GBD as the desired layout. An example of a contact record displayed using the GBD layout is shown in Figure 3 below. Note that all of the gaming statistics such as GamingMachines and TableGames are displayed together and that GBD is the selected layout as displayed on a button in the bottom right section of the screen.

Appendix E: GoldMine Business Contact Manager Fields

The GoldMine Business Contact Manager version 5.7 provides a fixed set of standard fields as well as ten user fields. Because of this restriction, only a limited number of Gaming Business Directory data table columns can be included in the GoldMine versions of the data tables. The following table shows the standard Gaming Business Directory columns available and the corresponding GoldMine version 5.7 field names.

Standard GBD Column Name	GoldMine Field Name

Appendix F: Telephone Numbers

Many of the telephone numbers included in Casino City's Gaming Business Directory CD are in the North American calling area. In the data tables these telephone numbers are typically formatted as a three-digit area code within parentheses, followed by a space, followed by a three-digit telephone exchange, followed by dash, followed by the final four digits of the telephone number. These numbers can be called from within the North American calling area by dialing 1 followed by the telephone number. Outside of the North American calling area the locally defined sequence of digits required to make international calls must be dialed first, followed by the country code for the North American calling area, which is the digit 1, followed by the ten-digit telephone number.

Many telephone numbers are also provided for gaming properties and organizations that are not in the North American calling area. Telephone numbers outside the North American calling area are formatted in the data files with a leading plus sign (“+”), followed by the country code, followed by the telephone number within the country punctuated in accordance with local conventions. The number of digits in such telephone numbers varies based on the length of the country code and the length of telephone numbers within the country. These numbers can be called from within the North American calling area by dialing 011 followed by the telephone number provided. Outside of the North American calling area, the locally defined sequence of digits required to make international calls must be dialed first, followed by the telephone number provided.

Appendix G: Department Responsibility Categories

The Responsibilities column specifies the department or area of responsibility for gaming property and gaming property owner executive contacts using the following values. When more than one responsibility applies to a contact, a comma followed by a space is used to separate responsibilities.
